THAT WAS COOPERATION

Those who furnish news to newspapers could learn a valuable lesson from the news account of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Eugene Dorsey III published last week.

The news, together with a picture, appeared in both The Elba Clipper and The Montgomery Advertiser on Thursday.

This was no coincidence or happenstance.

One of the first things a newcomer in the newspaper business learns is that after any news account is published, it then ceases to be news. Thereafter the most it can be considered is a rewrite and a rewrite is never given the same value by any newspaper as news.

It becomes particularly important in publication of engagements and weddings which are determined by the date the family cares to make the announcement.

To be fair to both their home-town newspaper and The Montgomery Advertiser, therefore, the news of the Dorsey wedding was furnished for publication on the same date.

Such consideration for others is one of the things which has made the name of Dorsey world prominent in the transportation industry.

22 YEARS AGO

Rev. L. W. Tubb of Louisville, a former pastor of the Elba Methodist Church, delivered the morning sermon here Sunday, Rev. O. H. Vanlandingham delivered the evening message.

A.C.L. Agent Aimon Strain is in the Coast Line Hospital, at Waycross, Ga., after an operation undergone several days ago.

Former Mayor Oscar English is enjoying the peace and quiet brought about by the laying of a new floor on the bridge over Beaver Dam Creek. The old structure had become so dilapidated that cars and trucks passing over it made a noise which greatly disturbed nearby residents.

Drayden Smith tells that Dr. Braswell instructed him to leave four sacks of feed in front of his store for the doctor to carry to his farm early Sunday morning. When Drayden opened his store Monday morning, there were the four sacks where he had left them. Dr. Braswell explained later that Rev. J. A. Jones hustled him off early Sunday morning to help him conduct his fifth Sunday meetings. Dr. Braswell never thought of the four sacks of feed.

Through the Keyhole

BY MRS. ROBERT CANNON

A RATHER FORMAL "LIT-TLE DINNER" complimenting pretty and popular Carolyn Deal was given last Thursday evening at Jean Paul's, when she and Mae Bryan entertained some thirty members of the wedding party and family. Jean had opened the family room doors to allow everyone to be together and the three reception rooms were all decorated in pink and green. Pink roses and candles were placed on the mantle and fragrant gardenias were on the mahogany end tables. The bride's table was covered in a white cutwork cloth and centered with a long arrangement of pink roses in which were burning pink "pencil candles." Dainty mini-cups were in the chosen colors and placecards were adorned with miniature nosegays of net and flowers. Individual tables were set up in the living and family rooms and they were similarly decorated. These clever hostesses had even tinted the ice cubes pink!

A CHEMISE, white lace over blue, complimented with blue shoes and bag, was the outfit Carolyn Deal chose to wear to a luncheon given her by Betty Dorsey and Mary Virginia Dorsey at the latter's home on Friday of last week.

In the dining room a bouffant organza cloth covered the table and fell to the floor. In the center was a large bouquet of pink roses mixed with turquoise flowers. Pink satin bows were placed at the four corners. On the buffet were two dresden candelabra which held roses, ivy, lily of the valley and ribbons in pink and white, as well as silver wedding bells.

The sixteen guests were seated at two long tables placed in the living room. As the party was a surprise kitchen shower for the bride, her table held a centerpiece composed of a toy stove painted pink on which was an aluminum boiler holding gardenia petals. Tiny kitchen tools tied with ribbon were used for placecards. And all the nice gifts were presented to Carolyn in two turquoise plastic baskets.

WAS SO SORRY to miss a wonderful gathering at Marion Brunson's home on Friday, June 6. The affair was a farewell to Joel and Elinor Murphy, who are now making their home in Key West, Florida.

In the background yard a sidewalk cafe setting was established by the use of card tables placed along side the flower beds, spotlighted to illuminate the scene. Hurricane lamps burning black candles were placed on each table. And a large buffet table was filled with tempting dishes. Congenial Marion was host to the honorees, Sammie and Jake Lubert Morrow, Jo Anne and Freddie Rainer, Joe Ann and Roy King, Margaret and Tom Beale, Sara Katherine and John Edwin Morrow, Frances Comer, John Harper, Pete Morrow, Buddy Whitman and Fred Harper.

While talking to Marion about this party, learned that John Harper had also entertained at a dinner party for the popular Murphys. He used pink roses in abundance on the mantle and buffet and small buds on the card tables that were placed in the dining room and reception hall. There were sixteen guests.

WHILE WE WERE VACATIONING last week in Florida, we kept seeing familiar faces. Kate and Boyd Murphy, Andy Kinney and a mighty cute brunette called "Dixie." Ran into Mae and Doile Bryan and the Dozier Bryans having supper at the Anchor Inn. There we also saw a college chum, Jean Townsend of Troy and Birmingham, who were dining with her family. On down the beach we stopped to watch the dancing and discovered that the fastest feet on the floor belonged to Billy Poole and his attractive date.

NEWS OF REDDOCK HILL, and the most exciting thing is that those lovely orange trucks are at long last paving our road. While the rustic appeals to me, the primitive leaves us cold and our road was at its best primitive. We were all upset to learn that John Dan Lowery had been hospitalized in Troy and that he and Janice would not get to go to California as planned. We hope John is soon up and about. Elton Bullard and son Heath have been visiting relatives in Mobile and having a nice vacation, and Pheta Ann Crook told me of a nice "cook-out" party given recently for Linda Crook, who is spending the summer in Tallapoosa. Host was Lawrence Padgett.

A SWEET BABY BOY in a blue blanket can be seen at Carolyn and Lister Brunson's home, where he has been staying for the past two weeks. The young man is named William Lister for his father and will be called "Bill."

AND THE LATEST NEWS item is that Becky and Wiley Stanford are leaving Decatur and will be in Pineapple, where Wiley will enter the broiler industry. He is now having three of those huge houses built, which will give him a good start in this business of chickens. Understand Alabama leads the nation in the production of chickens and that the business is a sound one. We only wish Wiley would come back home to raise the birds. We have a very friendly dog that would love to help him!

NIGHT IS BEST TIME TO KILL VICIOUS WASPS

The best time to go after those spring builders with the vicious stings, is under cover of darkness. This is the advice of API Extension Entomologist Jerry Ruffin. Of the more than 2,500 species of wasps in North America, only a few are troublesome to man, he said. These are the hornet, yellow jacket, polistine wasp, and even they could be classed as beneficial insects were it not for their habit of building nests close to the house or in garden shrubbery and then dealing a stinging rebuke to anyone who disturbs them. Wasps in general, continued Ruffin, kill and eat such pests as house flies, blow flies, corn earworms, and armyworms.

Night is the best time to destroy a wasp nest because the insects are less active then, and most of them are in the nest, he added. Suggested poisons are DDT or chlordane.

Dissolving a lump of salt in the kitchen sink every once in a while will keep it sanitary.

Air Conditioners Need Proper Care

Auburn—With warm weather here, it's a good idea to check air conditioners to see if they are operating properly. Frequent causes of air conditioner troubles, says API Extension Engineer W. T. Cox, are dirty air filters and inadequate wiring. Machines with a three-fourths horsepower motor, or larger, should be run on a separate 230 volt circuit, he added.

Number 10 wire is large enough for any size up to one and one-half tons, but number 8 wire is best for a two-ton or more unit. And, said the specialist, the air filter should be cleaned and coated every two weeks.

Soil Conservation

Some farm ponds in Coffee County have become covered with a scum (filamentous algae) which interferes with fishing and detracts from the looks of the pond.

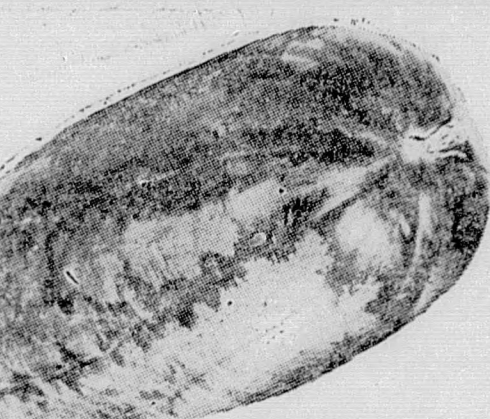

This scum is generally seen during the warm summer months. Very little in any benefit is derived from this scum as it does not furnish food for fish. It takes away fertilizer from the pond that would normally be available for producing a greater poundage of fish. Single filamentous algae can be controlled by adding 2-4 pounds of Copper per acre foot of water. Control of multiple type algae is now under study.

Applications are available for pine seedlings. They may be picked up at the forest ranger and soil conservation office. Applications will be accepted after July 1. Two dollars per thousand trees must accompany the order.
